Prime Wood Scarce

By PETER MCNELLY Times Staff

British Columbia's coastal forests are running out of prime timber, forcing a "revoluntary" change in sawmill operations, Resources Min-ister Ray Williston fold the legislature Wednesday.

Taking his turn in the throne speech debate. Willaton Indicated a new type of s a w m i i i operation phasemerged in B.C. to puecess imper bypassed by oider companies such as MacMillan-Bloedel and B.C. Forest Products tively recent operations such as the Pacific Logging-Doman mill in Ladysmith and Northwood operation in Prince George, he said in an interview outside the house.

SHAPE FUTURE .

The government's policy of close utilization, of forests helped bring about these changes during the last decade, said the minister, and will continue to shape the functions of the constitution of the const of forestry operations in

He said the new breed of mills uses equipment capable of processing logs which are not completely suited for lumber. The old coastal mills cannot cut and chip logs for lumber and pulp because they were designed to handle only the best timber.

"Over the years this has worked well, but the stands of worked well, but the stands of readily accessible, high grade timber are gradually declin-ing and as we move north-ward and higher up the slopes of the mountains, new types of timber stands have to be cut. Such require a new type of plant for processing and new ways of handling and sorting the logs."

MANDATORY

Close utilization policies, said Williston in an interview later, will come to Vancouver Island and the mainland

'We're making them man datory in (public sustained yield) units in the interior and the same procedure will be followed on the coast. And that will be telescoped considerably by the fact that 1 spoke this afternoon. That was the intent of my speech." - But he refused to say that the government would force adoption of a close utilization policy on the coast.

Close utilization is a policy which requires both manage-ment and labor to care for the future of their jobs and rights

This is because both parties know they, have a stake in sta-

"Up until the present time the introduction of the C.U. program on the coast has suf-fered from the 'chicken and the egg' problem, No one was willing to harvest the wood willing to harvest the wood unless it could be sold to cover costs plus a fair profit." But he added no mills had been developed which could cut lumber from wood which PARIS (UPI) — The United States and South Vietnam today offered a two-phased peace plan to end the Vietnam war and the allied negotiators said after the 5½ hour session that the Communists had started to study it carefully.

"We had a pretty interesting meeting," U.S. negotiator William J. Porter said. The Communists "asked questions which we have answered, we had quite a few questions for them which they answered.'

North Vietnam's Xuan Thuy and the Viet Cong's Nguyen Van Tien again condemned the allied peace package. But they indicated willingness to probe some of the aspects, ac-cording to the American and the South Vietnamese negotia-

Thuy displayed an unusually moderate attitude in talking to newsmen after he had denounced at the negotiating table the Nixon peace plan as an "election manoeuvre."

"We have followed with full attention the presentation of we have followed with full attention the presentation of the eight-point plan made public by the White House, said Thuy. Speaking softly in Vietnamese to an interpreter, he said that "us we have expected we realize that the American side is still trying to keep its forces in South Vietnam and keep in power the Saigon administration."

Grudging Okay On Health Formula

Years of wrangling over a new financial formula for public health services on southern Vancouver Island may soon be over.

Directors of the Capital Regional District Board, in a di-vided vote, decided Wednesday to accept a provincial government cost-sharing forwila "under protest."

The board also decided to proceed with bringing health services under the regional services under the regional district "without further

Public health services now are provided by the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health under what some directors called a "hodge-podge" financial formula in which Victoria, Oak Bay and Esquimalt pay much more than other areas per capita

A move to defer voting on the motion to the next board meeting was defeated, as was a move to refer the subject to before cipalities board took any action.

Board chairman Hugh Curtis said the question will go to municipalities anyway because assuming a new func-tion requires their approval. The vote division Wednesday saw a basic split, with the inner urban areas voting in favor and the outer area being against.

The board had received a one - sentence letter from Health Minister Ralph Loffmark, in reply to its letter which indicated support for a 70 per cent provincial, 30 per cent local, cost-sharing split.

The government has not enacted the legislation in the house. The proposed act, mentioned in the government's throne speech last week, would incorporate safety provisions of several acts, primarily the boiler, gas and electrical inspection acts.

The picketing plans were announced after a meeting in Vancouver of more than 200 engineers. It was called by the Engineers Joint Council which represents engineers in several organizations

ANNOYED

Berger said the engineers are annoyed at "the arrogance of the government in gance of the government in totally ignoring the people di-rectly concerned — engineers and industry."

He said it has been indicated the new act will spell out that operation by an engineer is not compulsory if the boiler is of less than 75 horsepower. Current limit is 50 horsepow-

Another hint, he said, in-dicates the new act will exempt boilers regardless of power in specific areas desig-nated by a government inspector.

Berger also said engineers want to know why the govern-ment plans a new act when it was not sought either by engineers or by such 'employers as the forest and pulp industries or hospitals.

He said provisions of the Boiler Inspection Act cannot be lumped with those of the Gas Inspection Act and the Electrical Inspection act.

"The gas and electrical acts are primarily oriented toward the home. Our's (the Boiler Inspection Act) is primarily toward industry and office buildings. The three are not compatible."

The article in the magazine, Air Actualities, said the fighter is called the F-9 and weighs 10 tons.

The magazine offers this breakdown of what it believes China's air force to be: 3,600 combat aircraft, including 2,900 fighters, 440 bombers, 300 helicopter and 400 transport planes.

The fighters are said to include, besides those made in China, 100 subsonic MiG-15s, 1,700 Mig-17s and two other supersonic planes, 1,000 MiG-19s and 30 MiG-21Cs.

The bombers are thought to include 100 TU-2s: 300 IL-28s and 25 TU-16s built in China.

Power at a

· Liberal Leader Pat McGeer has come out strongly for nuclear power for British Columbia-particularly Vancouver Island - and long-term history almost inevitably will prove him right. Nuclear plants in Britain, Russia and the United States have already shown that large-scale power from this source is a practical fact of our age. There are still problems of waste disposal which can form a very serious form of pollution, and these problems will become greater as the use of such power plants is extended. The hope is that the technical genius that has produced the plants can also find a remedy for the environmental. problems which the plants create.

In advocating nuclear power, Dr. McGeer deplores the large acreage of British Columbia which has been put underwater by storage dams for hydro-electric projects. The inundation of 650,000 acres of this province by hydrodams is a serious consideration, against which Public Works Minister Chant's reply that British Columbia has more than 250 million acres has more humor than relevance. The man-made lakes occupy valley acres, of which the province has relatively few. Mr. Chant's total includes a large number of acres which can be measured only perpendicularly. Beautiful and useful in their way, they are no substitute for the valley bottoms.

With nuclear power pollution must be included not only radioactive waste but also the temperature changes which hot water discharges from such plants will eause. This aspect was paramount in the protests which greeted a recent proposal to build a nuclear generator at Cowichan Bay. It was never satisfactorily shown that the temperature of the Bay would not be raised sufficiently to affect fish and plant life in this popular body of water.

The problems no doubt are surmountable. What is important is that irrefutable proofs be furnished before irreversible development is carried out. Too often - and British Columbia's experience of hydro-electric development provides examples - the cost of technological progress has been offset by 'environmental changes which detract in large measure from its success. There must be a careful balance between what we do to the earth and what we obtain from it. Too often the latter factor has been the only one given consideration.

Resources Minister Williston, taking issue with Dr. McGeer, says there are hydro-electric sources in the province which, without further flooding or "ecological destruction", could be made to produce 3.5 million kilowatt hours of 1 electricity. That, if correct, is good" to know. It is also good to know that Mr. Williston, after whom one of the largest hydro-dam lakes in British Columbia is named, recognizes that "ecological destruction" can be a part of at least some hydro projects.

Charge the Visitors

I should like to write regarding your article entitled "Fishing fees hit by marine men."

I consider the licensing of American boats to be long overdue. Each year more American boats come into Canadi an waters and take more than their share of salmon. These are well-to-do people who can afford to own expensive boats with the latest up-to-date equipment. Many of the boats are able to fish and return to base without even buying a dropt-of gas in Canada.

This applies especially to hoats fishing in the lower Georgia Straits which are only a few hours run from their home ports, travelling 25-40 mph. These people catch lots of fish and it doesn't cost them a cent

I like to fish and so do a lot of Canadimuch for the Americans. At least make visitors pay their share and limit the number of boats. — G. Howland, P.O. Box 71, Ganges.

Abortions

One reads with amazement a recent article in your paper regarding the 7,000 "therapeutic" abortions which were reported for British Columbia this past

We are given to understand a "therapeutic" abortion is one which is necessary to save the life of a mother or a child. It would appear that 90 per cent of the 7,000 abortions performed in B.C. were not "therapeutic" but rather an accommodation extended to the irresponsible ones who requested and received the "service"

I pay taxes and I pay for B.C. Medicare Insurance. I do not see why my money should be spent performing over 6,000 abortions per year. In other words, the government sanctions payment for this service, but denies surgery which might be classified as plastic or cosmetic surgery whereby unsightly or ugly features can be improved. If all aborsurgery likewise therapeutic?

Furthermore, the cost of these operations and the expensive subsequent hospitalization, are taking a heavy toll of money from our medicare funds. And this for destructive purposes; while at the same time funds for paramedical services, i.e., Naturopathic, Chiropractic, Osteopath, et al, are reduced to a ridicu lous level and these services are certa ly necessary to personal welfare, at the same time being constructive.

Why should I pay for the one (abortions) and be denied the other? Social justice in a just society with equal treatment for all, is the boast of our Premier. How does he reconcile this medical care paradox and where is the justice? Fair Treatment For All.

Ripped Off

I am writing in complaint of Mr. Walter McKinnon's review of the John Lee Hooker concert on Eriday, January 21, at the McPherson Theatre.

I am 19 years old and I don't have. much money but I did manage to scrape together $3.50 for the dooker concert and I feel that for all the years I have lived in Victoria, for $3.50 that concert was by far the best deal I have ever had. I sug gest that when you send someone out to cover a concert like this in the future, you send someone who at least knows something about musical arrangement and composition. Mr. McKinnon seems to have missed whole point when he suggests that "Following the intermission, the Hooker purists in the crowd were subjected to 20 minutes of unschooled, skull-shattering rock from a five-piece band, before the great man appeared." I would like to point out to Mr. Mc-Kinnon that the whole reason Mr. Hooker's back-up band (The Hookers) played for 20 minutes before John Lee himself came on was out of sheer respect, which I think he well deserves. Perhaps all Mr. McKinnon expected was some nice slow acoustical blues, but I think that during the concert John Lee Hooker explained that that isn't all the blues, there are other blues.

Mr. McKinnon goes on to say that the kids gave John Lee Hooker a standing ovation without knowing what they were doing. Sir, I would like to bring to your feet long before the end of the performance and they stayed that way while Mr Hooker came back for two encores, which many big stars will not do.

Mr. McKinnon mentions that the 'kids didn't realize" that they had been ripped-off. Well just who is Walter Mc-Kinnon to say that other people don't know anything about music, at least that is what he implied by his statement in the first paragraph of his story.

In conclusion I think that Mr. Walter McKinnon owes both John Lee Hooker, and the audience that attended the show an apology for his totally biased state-ments. You may not have got what you wanted. Mr. McKinnon, but I thought it was extremely obvious that the crowd on the whole thoroughly enjoyed the concert and did not feel ripped-off in the slightest.-Andy Hume, 3957 Gordon Head

Hard to Get Along

I am writing about a subject which I "The Struggle of God's Children" which has been going on since the beginning of time.

Now according to some people, in the beginning man was a "Cain" or a fugitive and was doomed to wander the earth in agony and despair, killing whatever or whomever he came upon. Now I feel all people were not and are not of this origin. These people are striving for peace and understanding, and find it hard to believe that such war and destruction can exist in the hearts and minds of some men. Now don't you find it just a little sad to hear that there are some 40,000 blind people in Vietnam from this act of war? Why is it so hard for some people to get along? Were they neglected children or were they spoiled brats?

As one Canadian with an origin in the first settlers, I believe we should all try a little harder in the future to under stand these poor misguided souls .- D. R. Hewitt, N. Pender Island.

'Prolonged Affair'

I am extremely happy to know from Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova of the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada that the Victoria Times is one of the participants with us in our serving the Bangladesh people who took shelter in India. The Ramakrishna Mission was extending relief to 225,000 people in 13 camps in four states of Assam, Meghalaya, Tri-pura and West Bengal. Relief was in the shape of baby food, clothing, etc. The funds raised by you through the "Cup of Milk" fund will go for the purchase of baby food being procured locally. This is according to the advice of Dr. Lotta

The Bangladesh'people have achieved

freedom at a great sacrifice. The return journey of the evacuees has started. I have seen the smile on the faces of old and new while they say good-bye and start for their home. Inside Bangladesh the condition is very acute - the relief will be a prolonged affair. There is also the question of rehabilitation. So aid to-wards any item in any measure will be a precious help. The Ramakrishna Mission has been requested by the government of Bangladesh as well as the government of India to do relief work in that country as well as to restore the Ramakrishna Mission centres that were working there before the tragic crack-down. -Swami Yuktananda. #### Car Insurance

In recent years the British Columbia laws related to car insurance have been changed. These changes were supposed to lower the cost and improve the service to the car operators. Unfortunately, in most cases this has not been the case.

Anyone having problems related to car insurance is requested to write to me as car insurance spokesman for the New Democratic Party in the British Columbia Legislature. When writing please state the name of the insurance involved, your policy number and the details of your problem.

I will do what I can to assist you, and do my utmost to see that a better system of supplying car insurance is developed in British Columbia. - Bill Hartley, MLA, (Yale-Lillooet).

Action Asked

The federal government's decision not to intervene in the air traffic controller's strike was a regrettable failure of the government to govern. It should be obvious to the government that the majority of Canadians who voted them into office? expect the government to protect their interests, not to permit the public's own employees to hold them up to ransom. That the public should tolerate a strike by its employees is as ludicrous as if it were to permit a strike by its represent-

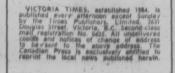

In a larger sense, there can be little justification for a government permitting any minority interest group to disrupt the economy. Such a situation suggests either that the majority is too weak to protect its interests, or that the govern-ment is not reflecting the wishes of the

In this case, the public may reasonably expect prompt action by the government to end the strike. In the long run, the fairest solution to the problem of labor-management relations may be some sort of compulsory and binding arhitration by the public's representatives, and parallel public controls on all forms of income. - James D. Graig, 582 Brookleigh Dr., Brentwood Bay.

The Pusher Persists It is not an absolute axiom that

The suggestion by the LeDain commission that heroin should be made legally available for drug addiction treatment in special circumstances is not, according to press reports, an indication that the commission is preparing the ground for later proposals to make any drugs other than alcohol generally available.

If later information bears out this assumption, it appears that the commission has discounted the argument that easy, inexpensive legal access to narcotics might reduce the toll of crime attributed to addicts in their efforts to acquire enough money to pay blackmarket prices for their supplies. The operations of pushers will Experience indicates that no matter how severe the penalties imposed on the illegal trafficker, some individuals - often addicts themselves driven by the compulsions of their habit - will risk penalties to reap the high returns of trafficking. As long as these persons persist, addicts dependent on heroin, or any other illegal drug, will resort to various means to acquire the money they need addiction creates criminals. Some addicts are not involved with the law and many so-called criminal addicts were criminals before they became addicts. But there is a correlation between addiction! and erime - apart entirely from the eriminal aspects of the narcotic

So far, suppression of drug addiction and attempts to cure addicts have not been successful. It will be interesting to read whether Canada can devise some means of taking the high profit out of illegal sales, Expérience in the United States, where intensive efforts have resulted in seizure of large quantities of illicit supplies and the arrest of numerous people involved have, according to recent report, scarcely made a dent in the widespread use of drugs.

Legislation by Exhaustion

Once again NDP whip Leo Nimsick has failed in his efforts to have an 11 o'clock deadline fixed for night sittings of the Legislature - unless the house decides otherwise on a special occasion. ## To Each His Own Sentence

Manitoba, Harold Gy do something practical about the inconsistency with which sentences for vio lations of the law are imposed in Manitoba. He is going to put new magistrates through an apprenticeship course

Before the new dispensers of justice get into business they will spend several weeks sitting alongside other magisrates watching how things are done and e wheels turn in decision-making. It is then assumed they will have acquired a domposite of how sentences are arrived at and will be guided by the experience concocting sentences of their own.

Now if Hon. John Turner, the minster of justice, will just set up a school for judges of the superior courts perhaps some of the wilder discrepancies in sentences noted everywhere in criminal cases could be ironed out.

One of the curious facts of our society is this: There are schools, colleges, tech nical schools, graduate schools without mber to train everything from garage mechanics to neurosurgeons to journalsts. But there is no school of any kind to teach a judge how to judge.

Little Connection

True, judges have to know something bout the law, but that something may have little connection with the kind of judgments they are required to make. A seriously handicapped in sorting out the degree of guilt in a motorcycle gang

At the present time there seems to be nation-wide confusion on the bench about what to do with drug peddlers. In Calgary, recently, one judge sent a peddler of heroin to the penitentiary for seven years. In Edmonton, a trafficker in the same drug got 18 months. In connection with the so-called soft drugs, there is complete anarchy in sentencing, with the penalties running all the way from suspended sentences with probation to stiff terms in the penitentiary vary greatly between magistrates within the same city.

Val Werrier, in the Winnipeg Tribune reported recently on an experiment conducted at a magistrates' conference Four members of the judiciary were asked for their sentences on two hypothetical cases. Each was given an identical set of circumstances. No two judges would have imposed the same sentences

The sentences for the least culpable accused would have been six months in jail, suspended sentence, six months in

If the number of cases were increased rough consistency might emerge. Yet it is clear that the second magistrate. above, leaned to much shorter sentences than the fourth judge in the above exam-

It is clear, as the magistrates themselves confess, that the length of the sentences often is more the product of the personality of the man on the bench than of the offence committed. And the sentences which are handed down for given offences can vary widely with the season of the year, or conditions prevailing at the time of sentencing.

Variations

If there has, been a rash of robberies, sentences will be heavier than during a quiet time, They also tend, or seem tend to become heavier when police departments, in campaigns for larger staffs and higher pay, bombard the pub-lic with statistics about alarming in-

One effect of the wide discrepancy in sentences is to increase the manoeuvring that goes on by experienced law breakers to avoid certain magistrates and get before certain other magistrates judges. Manitobans can still recall the days of the famous judge, L. St. George Stubbs, who openly proclaimed from his bench that there was a law for the rich and a law for the poor.

He regularly chastised creditors who than by any other judge in Canada...

Fear and Hate In Young Eyes Seeing Too Much

BELFAST, Northern Ire-land Children have to be taught to hate. In Northern Ireland they are learning from masters of the art their own parents.

Between the Protestant majority and Catholic minority of this unhappy province of the United Kingdom runs a malignancy that has spread from its adult carriers to infect a whole new generation.

A nine-year-old from one of the strongholds of the guerril-las who have turned Northern Ireland into a battleground is speaking to Dr. Morris Fraser of the child guidance clinic of the Royal Belfast Hospital for "The British soldiers can't see wires when it's dark. So you tie one to lamp posts on each side of the street, about six feet high, and when they come along in their Land Rovers you hope the one always standing in the back will be caught by the neck or chest. If it knocks him off you throw stones and run."

the religious, tribal and communal strife:

"Catholics should be killed or burned. They shoot Protestants. But I'm in the Junior Orange and we know what to do with them."

These are the young eyes that have seen too much the snipings and bombings, the violent deaths and the destruction of millions of dollars worth of property. These are mostly the children of "poor Belfast," often hungry, often living in overcrowded apartments on what can be scraped together when the breadwinner's out of work.

the added advantage that, as Dr. Fraser says, "a stable family can withstand almost any amount of stress.

Psychiatrists and social workers are worried about the children of Northern Ireland. Dr. Fraser has been studying and treating them since the first outbreaks of violence more than two years ago after a series of demonstrations by Catholics de manding equal rights in everything including employment and housing.

Whatever the final outcome of the battle now joined be tween the illegal Irish Repub lican Army (IRA) and British troops charged with keeping Catholics and Protestants apart, he fears a hitter har-vest - the lost childhood and warped maturity of hundreds too young to understand but not too young to suffer.

Make nail bombs

Numerically the numbers of children emotionally crippled or damaged permanently may not be large; children are nat-urally resilient and there is a body of research from pre-vious conflicts showing most young victims quickly return to, normal with peace. There a complicating factor here however that is to the credit of neither side — very few times in history have children been so used and misused in

In Northern Ireland they have been taught to make and handle nail bombs and Molohandle half bombs and spine flow cocktails. A sub'teenager was reported directly in-volved in the planting of a gelignite bomb. In Belfast last Nov. 28, when a Scots Guards man was killed, soldiers, man was killed, soldiers, rather shamefaced, frisked even six-year-olds. Said an army spokesman: "Chilgren cannot be evoluded from search. Some children are in the junior IRA organization and one of their first tasks is the child has potential to both sides. An innocent child properly prompted, may tell a searching soldier, "Yes, my daddy does have a gon like" yours." With children in the streets. Molotov cocktail bombers snipers and stone throwers can operate more soldiers dare" not

On Jan. 4 the army charged Catholic parents had-deliberately sent children out into a road to prevent them returning a sniper's fire.

An army officer said: They were obviously sent out to screen the sniper from our men. I shudder to think of any innocent child being hit and I am horrified that any parent could think of putting a child in this position."

Despite urgent warnings in newspapers, on radio and tele-vision and distributed on leaflets, many parents in the Lower Falls area give their hildren realistic toy guns for Christmas.

With snipers operating and soldiers aware their own lives might depend on shooting first, the appearance of full-size models of hand guns and half-size Thompson machine-guns making a crackling-noise like gunfire, had soldiers so jampy they com-plained parents were trying to provide an incident involving children.

There are reports the threat of kidnapping or killing of a child can keep mouths shut. Charges of exploiting the young fly about. Three hundred Catholic teachers in Londonderry sent a message to British Prime Minister Edward Heath alleging the army ward Heath alleging the army was subjecting children to almost unbelievable pressures "as a deliberate policy." This, they said, included timing troop movements near the Bogside and Creggan areas to bincide with the movement of schoolchildren.

Badges of honor

So from six-years-old and up they hurl stones and bot-tles at soldiers, display bruises from what they say are rubber riot control bullets like badges of honor, rush to TV and still cameras ready to pose, bricks in hand. Girls of ten goad soldiers with obscene vocabularies, vandalism is a 50 per cent, school examina

A result is that thousands of children have been to hospitals with emotional distur-bances. Dr. Fraser, who is in his early 30's, has seen per-haps more affected children than any other Northern Ireland psychiatrist and, after touring American ghettoes for comparison, is working on a book, Children in Conflict.

"Harlem." he said. nothing compared to Bally-murphy. What's called a slum in the U.S. would be reasona-bly good housing in working class areas form." class areas here."

The children of most con-cern were not little Lords Fauntleroy before the trou-bles. They are the problem of rough and ready districts with plenty of problems at any time — not enough playgrounds, not enough jobs, not

Clear-out enemy

Poorly clad, poorly fed, any of the children took their pleasures in the streets hitching on trucks, throwing stones at passing cars, fighting with each other. Now they have a clear-cut enemy for their frustrations — the British soldier concentrate on him.

'Children on a street where there is a riot or other vio-lence suffer short term symptoms' such as steeplessness, anxiety and betwetting," said Dr. Fraser, "These tend to resolve for most of them when the street is quiet. But there is a small group for whom they do not resolve. These include children who develop mental symptoms and might well be in trouble anyhow, and children who learn to act violently.

"In the slums here, as well as in the U.S., there is a failure of cohesion of the family." There is no one to whom a child can confide his fears. A child must have a parent. You don't go to a parent who is en-gaging in violence himself. What can you say to a child who fears his father is going to be shot or killed, who fears his father will not be there when he comes home from when he comes home from school?

He knows other fathers are missing Labout 1,000 Catholics have been interned at one time or another). It is ex traordinarily difficult to cope with.

Some say the children are lence dissipates aggression.

Dr. Fraser does not agree.
Participation in violence enhances agression. They are getting behavioral clues. For some the violence may persist for a whole life. They are not shocked any more when they see people wounded or killed."

Then some of the ghetto areas were broken up and the families moved to new horis-ing estates. They're running wild because the mothers'sim-ply can't take care of families that size, especially in that size, especially in highrise flats.

"For a child in one of these areas whose father is unemployed and who is not likely to be employed himself there is high excitement in joining an illegal army. It's like joining the French resistance.

"But it's a harrowing sight when the children leave their schools each day, to knew that if a line of soldiers didn't keep them apart they'd fight.

Dr. Fraser said the answer must be integrated schools. 'Children do not consider the other side as human beings," he said. "They are frightened. They get their bigotry fears from all around them.

An inbred hatred

Major Jim Kelly, who func tions as army spokesman for the Lower Falls Catholic area, was interviewed at a heavily camouflaged and street outside was ridged with hillocks of asphalt forcing ve-hicles to slow down under the guns of the blockhouse and diminishing the chance a bomber might toss a grenade from a passing car.

society's workers have no-ticed in the playgrounds." said the report. "is that some of the children between the ages of four and five spend considerable time erecting barriers across the floor pre-tending to shoot and throw petrol hombs.'

It went on: "Many of the young children in poor Belfast have been traumatized in two ways. Firstly they have been affected by the burnings shootings and tensions and seek release from them. Selseek release from them. condly they are experiencing the daily grind of real poverty, and a shortage of opportunity to make the best of them

During the throne speech debate, Barrie Clark (L-North Vancouver-Seymour) berated the attorney-general for say-ing control of solvents is a federal responsibility.

Pension Bilking Scored by Cocke

Legislation to prevent com-panies from "bilking" em-ployees out of their pension benefits was urged in the le-gislature Wednesday by Dennis Cocke (NDP Westminster.)

Cocke said the loss of pension benefits by at least 48 former employees of Mc-Gayin-Toastmaster Company Ltd. of Vancouver was a case where the employer "used a badly set-up pension plan to his advantage and literally stole from his employees."

The company closed a plant, laying off employees whose non-contributory pension plan specified that benefits would only be paid to persons over 55 years of age.

"The pension plan was a non-contributory negotiated plan. The employees accepted it as being a portion of their earnings." Cocke said.

A man aged 53, with 33 years service, was laid off without any benefits, Cocke said, citing one example.

'The same plan covers employees in Alberta and Saskatchewan but there at least employees have protection within ployees have protection within the law," he said. "There, any employee with 10 years in the plan or who is age 45, gets full proportionate credit for his service."

Cocke, the NDP expert on pensions, said the provincial government should act to "fill in the cracks . . . Let no one else be bilked out of their pension."

He said the company was able to switch the accrued benefits of the laid-off employees to a pension plan in a related firm which means "the employer is going to get off cheap for a long time to

Goaded by Barrie Clark (L-North Vancouver-Seymour) Premier Bennett denied his government has ever advocat-ed building the Moran Dam on the Fraser River.

Clark had been ridiculing the government for not having but a clear policy statement on the dam into the throne

"The least the throne speech could have said was yes or no to the Moran Dam," said Clark.

Bennett rose from his seat, pointed his finger at the op-position benches and shouted: "I want to say very clearly, as leader of this government, that this government has not advocated the building of the Moran dam."

This was immediately chal-lenged by Robert Strachan (NDP-Cowichan-Malahat) who said Recreation and Com-servation Minister Ken Kier-nan had supported the project last October

Clark dismissed Bennett's answer as "double words" and pressed for a simple "yes or no" statement. When Bennett said nothing, Clark challenged Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell to clarify government policy when speaks today.

Dennis Cocke (NDP New Westminster) earlier had also called for the government to go on record as opposed to the damning of the Fraser. He warned of danger to fisheries on the river and

Flooding the Skagit Valley would bring no significant changes there, Resources Minister Ray Williston said

Williston told the Jegislature the problem in the Skagit didn't start with him and he didn't start with film and he didn't intend to take the blame for signing the 1967 agreement which gave provincial consent for the flooding to proceed.

Tax Relief Plea Sounded Again

Liberal MLA Barrie Clark (North Vancouver-Seymour) Wednesday renewed his annual plea for property tax relief for the elderly.

In his reply to the throne speech, Clark told the legislature the provincial govern-ment should create a fund allowing elderly homeowners to charge their property taxes against it.

This would not require much money, said Clark, and the fund would continually be replenished by money coming from deferred taxes rea-homes after the owner died. "It's cheaper than building old age homes; would enable the elderly to stay where they are and would stop old age ghettos," he said.

The Liberal member noted this is the sixth year he has advocated this scheme and now it is backed by the Union of B.C. Municipalities.

On other subjects, Clark suggested B.C. consider legis-lation similar to that in Great Britain which forbids advertising companies to accept government business if they also take political advertising.

BUDGETS TIGHT

Clark noted the provincial government paid $774,000 to James Lovick Ltd. advertis-ing during the 1970-71 fiscal

"It doesn't take much arithmetic to work out the com-mission on that," Clark said. He said the worst feature of the throne speech was its absence of programs for the el-derly, many of whom are spending up to $600 monthly for nursing care hecause the government has not created care facilities for

PROTECT THE LITTLE GUY - COCKE

Changes in the Companies Act are needed to end British Columbia's reputation as "home sweet home for the corporate rip-off artists," the legislature was told Wednesday. Dennis Cocke (NDP-New Westminster) said a "law to protect the little guy" is required and extra staff must be given to the provincial Securities Commission.

Cocke said B.C.'s record as a 'happy hunting ground for wheeler dealers' is illustrated by the complex history of manipula-tions surrounding North West Life Assurance Company.

He read from letters written in 1960 by a Vancouver lawyer advising a Seattle investor that, the firm was available for purchase. Other letters by the lawyer to the same man offered crown-granted Umber holdings and B.C. oil wells for sale as well.

Cocke said the company and others that subsequently became linked to it showed "a long line of leeches and bloodsuckers" at work getting profits while thousands of B.C. shareholders were played for "suckers."

"In B.C. so far as I can see it is not criminal to break a voting trust," Cocke said. In addition, understaffing of the Securities Commission means some dubious forms of business activity are low on the priority list for investigations, he said.

Park Named After Skier

The provincial cabinet has established a 451-acre Nancy reene Park near Rossland. Campsites, picnic sites and trails will be provided in the new class A park which surrounds Nancy Greene Lake, near Highway 3.

Five mineral claims in the area are specifically excluded from the park.

In another cabinet order, 44 acres donated by the Alpine Club of Canada were added to 12,800-acre Mount Assiniboia Park near Banff on the B.C. Alberta border.

Speaking of Sapporo: Bring Expense Account

Just a note to inform you that there will be two types of "games" going on at Sapporo in Japan next month. Not one, I thought you should know.

Actually "type 1" can be construed as the reason for "type as the Japanese would like to make everyone welcome. So please bring expense account.

First, of course, there are the winter Olympic Games under the direction of high poobah, Avery Brundage

A commanding figure in the Olympics, Brundage has said, regarding the fuss over the eligibility of some Olympic skiers:
"It would be more harmful for the Olympic movement if they were not disqualified." Which many will be.
And also: "The Olympic glory must be reserved for amateurs."

Naturally, all this is going to be hard on the skiers, but the Japanese nonetheless are going all out to make certain that even if there isn't any skiing at the winter Olympics, at least the visitors will have the opportunity of having other things to

Perhaps you read the item:
"About 5,000 night club hostesses gowned from mini-dress to kimono are ready to entertain visitors..."
Oh, hoy!

Dancing, Cuddling, Japanese Style

And as 70.000 visitors are expected at Sapporo daily, 450.000 coming from Overseas points; and who knows what an Olympic fan really wants, I decided to explore the situation, further, and

And do you know-what?

If will cost about 6:000 yen ($20) an hour to dance and cud-die with a living doll in a flame-red dress at one of Sapporo's biggest night spots.

If that sounds high, it is because Japanese are considered bigger spenders than foreigners, and can write off such plea-bigger spenders than foreigners, and can write off such pleasures on their expense accounts.

Still, the Japanese want visitors, and, in return, can promise they will be in good hands.

For instance some of the hostesses have been imported at great expense (the Sapporo fee is 20 to 40 per cent higher than in Tokyot. They will earn an average of $666 a month, which is about what a junior Japanese executive makes; and the most popular girls will tuck away about $1,600 for services rendered.

That's the cuddling and dancing bif. That's the cuddling and dancing bit.

So you can see the competition, as in the Olympic tradition,

Of course Brundage knows all this, After all, he said this week: "There are two kinds of sports in this materialistic world. There are those who are only interested in sport for sports sake, and those for financial reasons.

Turkish Baths with a Diference

So, it figures that if there are few skiers coming, then it st he the hostesses he is talking about. Right? Right! So, on with the study report.

And with it, by western-standards, a possbile problem for the high liver. The night clubs on Sapporo's "fun-street" may be great, but they close at midnight. Still, on second thought, perhaps it's not too much of a problem either Beause out.

problem, either, Because on or about the same time as the night clubs go dark, the city's Tsurekomi Yado comes to life and begins to do a thriving business.

Tsurekomi Yado? On, that's a "take-girl-in-hotel." It helps to know some of the language

Which means simply, that as friendship is one of Japan's selling points for the Olympics, sometimes the hostesses will accompany their male guests to these establishments. me have Turkish baths. So does Fun Street. And some have baths with a difference. Do they ever!

One, for instance, called the Genji, is named after the hero of Japan's famous 11th century novel. The attendants there are girls, naturally, but get this:

They cover their nude hodies with soapy foam and serve as human washrags!

Now, about that expense account, and awaiting further direc

Getting a second chance has heen the story of Ernie Wake-ly's hockey career since he left the junior Winnipeg Braves in 1960. He has criss-crossed the North American continent in the intervening period so many times his itinerary reads like a travelogue. Per-manent layovers were few and far between.

But Scotty Bowman rescued him from the airlines in 1969, installed him in the first successful three-goalie system in the National Hockey League with St. Louis Blues, and has been more or less a regular since mostly less.

He earned major-league credentials his first two seasons but remained the other goalie behind veterans Jacques Plante and Glenn Hall. This year, with both Plante and Hall gone, the No. 1 spot was his almost.

The close-checking scoreless affair broke off in the last period when the Blues surged into a 2-0 lead on goals by Gary Sabourin and Garry Unger before Bryan Hextall's screen shot spoiled Wakely's shutout at 12:59.

Jean Ratelle, with goals No. 29 and 30, lifted his season's point total to 81 and a tie for the NHL scoring lead with Boston's Phil Esposito, as the Rangers moved within one point of Boston's East Division top spot.

Linemates Rod Gilbert and Vic Hadfield also got into the act, Gilbert scoring once and drawing two assists and Hadfield collecting two assists as the league's top scoring unit continued to close on the season's 'record of 336 set by Esposito's line in 78 games last year

Financial Wheeling-Dealing Laid to Doyle

ST. JOHN'S, Nfid. (CP)

Finance Minister John C.
Crosble has threatened a government takeover of a linerboard mill under construction at Stephenville-unless promoter John C. Doyle uses a $30 million loan from German sources to repay $24 million in advances he received from the previous Liberal adminisprevious Liberal adminis-

Mr. Crosbie, who also is economic development min-ister in the Progressive Conservative government, said Wednesday Mr. Doyle could retain his participation in the project or withdraw yountarily but would be required in either ease to use money from the loan to repay advances received since June 25, 1971.

He would also have to agree to spend the remainder of the loan on the mill.

Otherwise the government would begin legal action with-in a week to take over the mill and an associated logging operation near Goose Bay in southern Labrador.

ACCUSES SMALLWOOD

Mr. Crosbie told a news conference former premier Joseph Smallwood had shewn Joseph Smallwood had snewn "negligence and wanton disregard of the interests of the public" in allowing Mr. Doyle to obtain the loan in West Germany on the province's credit Dec. 22 without written assurance it would be spent on the mill project. on the mill project.

Canadian Javelin Ltd. Canadian Javelin Ltd., headed by Mr. Doyle, is the parent company of Javelin Paper Corp. Ltd. which is building the mill and Javelin Forest Products Ltd., operators of the Labrador logging enterprise.

Mr. Crosbie said the province's financial commitment to the project was $121 million in guarantees and loans.

Mr. Doyle, who has been in St. John's since the Oct. 28 provincial election toppled the Liberal government for the first time in almost 23 years, could not be reached Wednes-day night for comment.

But a brief statement issued Wednesday night by the Jave-lin Paper Corp. office in St. John's said the company was willing to repay the $24 mil-lion "upon the release of the company from its obligations under the interim agreements by which the advances were made."

The statement said that, under the agreements, repay-ment was not required until next December.

MINISTER UNHAPPY

Mr. Crosbie said in an interview Mr. Doyle was attempting to-force the government to drop conditions and safe-guards included in the agree-ments for protection of the public interest.

Mr. Crosbie, Justice Minister T. Alex Hickman and William Marshall, minister without portfolio, meet Monday with Mr. Doyle.

Further meetings were planned with the expected arrival later this week of Mr. Doyle's lawyers and other ad-

Legislation was passed in authorizing the government to enter into agreements with Mr. Doyle for construc-tion of the mill to manufaccardboard and kraft

The government originally agreed to guarantee $53 million for the project. Mr. Doyle was to supply $11 million in working capital, Mr. Crosbie

The minister said the guarwas increased $62,102,000 in 1968.

NOT MADE PUBLIC

He said advances and loans never made public by Mr. Smallwood and rising costs had increased the province's financial involvement to $121 million It was likely an additional $30 million would be required for completion of the mill by next September, about six months behind schedule.

More than 1,500 men are employed on construction of the mill and about 500 loggers are at work in Labrador.

On completion, the mill will employ more than 400.

Mr. Crosbie said an orderin council Dec. 10 authorized Mr. Smallwood, who also was economic development min ister, to provide Mr. Doyle with a guarantee for a $30 million loan to be raised before Dec. 31.

Fire Death

EDMONTON (CP) - Roger Clute, Jr., 26, a city lawyer, died Wednesday in a house fire which was fought in 40-below-zero weather.

A friend who was also staying in the house owned by dute's parents, escaped from the burning building by diving head-first through a window, clad only in his undershorts. His name was not released.

GLENSHIEL HOTEL DINNER SMORGASBORD $2,25 (6 · 9 Every Nite) 806 Douglas St. 383-4164

He said the order also obliged Mr. Smallwood to negotiate a backup agreement with Mr. Doyle to ensure the money was used only for the mill or the southern Labrador logging enterprise:

But Mr. Doyle was given the guarantee without having signed the agreement.
"For the next five or six

Mr. Doyle agreed "after days after Dec. 22 the government and its officials could not find out where the proceeds of this loan guaranteed by the government were." Mr. Crosbie said.

"On Dec. 28 the government discovered that the money was at the Banque Nationale de Paris and on its way to Panama.

"Mr. Doyle was then informed that the money had to be placed in a joint account to be expended only with the au-thorization of both the govern-ment and Javelin officials."

strenuous protests from the Mr. Crosbie said the latest advances to Mr. Doyle included two made after the Oct. 28 election—one for $7.8 million Nov. 19 and another for $1.2

million Dec. 10. He said $28,985,334 of the West German loan should be used to repay advances and loans made since June 25, in-cluding $4,995,334 owed to Bankers Trust Co. of St.

In a letter to the district, he said the bylaw was "confested publicly in the election and the electoral area director who challenged the bylaw was successful.

This was a reference to the election of Jim Campbell of Saturna Island as director, for the Outer Gulf Islands on the regional board and the defeat of former director Joan Purchase of Port Washington.

Campbell also said, the bylaw should have included bylaw should have included provision for a development area and that the region's proposed bylaw was "excessively technical, was arhitrary, in its standards and some fixings in the hylaw were not necessary for the orderly development for a low-density area like the Gulf Islands, but more for an urbanized municipality,"

At Wednesday's meeting of the board, a letter was re-ceived from the Pender Island Chamber of Commerce stat-ing that it is in favor of the zoning hylaw "in its present form" and trusted it will become legislation "very soon."

The board agreed to refer Campbell's letter to the zon-ing sub-committee for a re-port to the local planning committee.

VIENNA (Reuter) — Austria's Roman Catholic Church plans to use its monasteries as rehabilitation centres for drug addicts of all denomina-tions, the Catholic news agency Kathpress says.

Baking Bread

"It's no wonder I went into the restaurant business. I was six when my Daddy died and Mom had to work to keep us, so I was left to cook and be housemaid at home with my little brother of three and my baby sister. I reeven, Mom was off working at the cannery in Henryville, and I decided to bake light bread. I set my yeast, made my sponge and baked the prettiest loaf of light bread you ever laid eyes on. wanted to show it to Mom, but she wouldn't be back from Hen ryville for two or three days. So we set off, my brother and me taking turns to carry the baby, and we walked through the woods and fields to Henryville. to show my Mom that loaf of light

Police Attacked Crowd

TORONTO (CP) — A spokesman for a Ukrainian organization says that Toronto police on horseback to police on horseback knocked men, women and girls to the ground when Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin was in the city last fall.

Robert Maksymec, president of the Ukrainjan-Canadian Committee, said at a provincial inquiry Wednes-day that the police used their. riding crops freely to club demonstrators during the visit last Oct. 25.

Officers on foot used their Officers on foot used their fists against a crowd pressing against three police lines outside the Ontario Science Centre where Mr. Kosygin spoke at a dinner, he charged.

He disputed earlier police evidence that the demon-strators came close to breaching pelice lines in efforts to rush the science centre, where Mr. Kosygin was addressing a Canadian Manufac-turers' Association banquet.

His committee had asked for police co-operation a week before Mr. Kosygin's arrival in Toronto—because it had "planned an extremely peaceful demonstration," Mr. Maksymec, an engineer, told the inquiry commissioner, Judge Anthony Vannini of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

POLICE REPORT OFFER

Police earlier safd they had heard of a $50,000 offer to kill Mr. Kosygin and that infor-mants had said attempts would be made to throw five bombs through the science centre windows.

They also said they expected a concerted effort to rush their lines by the demonstrators, massed 18 feet deep across the street from the

But Mr. Maksymec said that minutes before the arrival of the mounted unit the crowd in the vicinity where he was standing was "in a jovial mood" with no idea of attacking the police. The committee represent about 30 groups in Toronto of Ukrainian businessmen, students and cultural groups. Mr. Maksymec said it represents about 90 per cent of Toronto Ukrainians.

In the crowd were smaller groups of Estonians, Lat-yians, Lithuanians, Hungari-ans and Jews, he said. At the back of the crowd there were also "10 or 26 in a group that I was unable to identify."

PLAMES GROUP

He said this was the group that forced the encounter with police that led eventually to a dozen injuries and 20 arrests. The group at the back "started yelling and screaming and shouting slogans," pushed against the crowd.

This caused a chain reac-tion, shoving the front line of demonstrators into the police wall, and creating a bulge in it. Police lashed out with their fists and straightened out the

He was unable to identify what group started shoving the demonstrators into the police lines but learned that members of the right-wing Edmund Burke Society were on hand. He said he saw placards with the letters E. B. S.

written on them.

Before the outbreak of vio-lence there had been no pro-vocative language. "It was al-most an outing, a picnic," the events that followed "were the last thing that we wanted to have happen.' Mr. Maksymee said there was no plot to harm Mr. Ko-sygin. He testified he held a meeting with police Oct. 18, requesting that plainclothes officers mix with the crowd to help control any military groups "that might try to in-

More Fish Fleet Space Urged

Esquimalt Harbor Development Needed

Victoria's special harbor committee today decided to ask the federal government to increase space at Fisherman's Wharf as temporary relief for the expanding fishing fleet here.

Victoria Harbor will never be able to accommodate the new larger boats entering the new larger boats entering the industry so a location in Es-quimalt will have to be devel-oped, they decided, The committee, made up of city aldermen and represent-

The first goal of the special committee set up by Mayor Peter Pollen is to find space needed immediately. Ald. Harold Olafson suggested a meeting next week with transport department officials, to request three or four new floats at Fisher-man's Whari.

Olfason and committee chairman Ald. Clyde Savage both said the city is interested in potential appeal of new fishing floats downtown, but there is no way Victoria Harbor can handle a fleet of 400.

A fleet of 250 boats of the smaller size could be accommodated, the committee estimated. However, they did not rule out the possibility of building new floats on the west side of the Inner Harbor next to the Johnson Street bridge, and at a location in West Bay.

The probable location of a new Esquimalt Harbor fish wharf is in the View Royal vicinity. The committee es-timated this could only be completed in about two years, and Savage promised to press the matter with the Capital Regional District board.

The crunch comes tonight for the Greater Victoria School Board.

Board chairman Allan McKinnon said today Education Minister Donald Brothers has indicated in a letter that he still intends to limit the district's spending to 108 per cent of its basic education program, not the 110 per cent' limit which has been used in previous years.

This indication, which came as a response to the board's request that Brothers hold off, leaves the board with an agonizing choice, and a choice which is to be made at its special meeting tonight.

If the 108 per cent limit is put into effect, and Brothers has repeatedly said he will initiate legislation to change the Public Schools Act to do so, the board has two options:

Chop more than $900,000 from its 1972 provisional budget to allow the budget to match the funds the provin-cial government has promised • Hold a referendum to raise the $900,000 or whatever, part of it is left after budget cuts are made.

Neither option is attractive.
To cut $900.000 from its provisional budget, the board sional budget, the board would be forced to drop its sex education program, leave at least 23 teacher vacancies unfilled, cut back on special classes and special counsellors, end the district swim pervisory and administrative personnel, to mention only a few measures.

An appeal to the taxpayers for the money is not that much more pleasant an alternative, McKinnon said.

"My estimate would be that it would fail," McKinnon said of a possible referendum for the needed operating funds.

He said many people he has talked to who are not involved in education oppose the idea of voting more money for education.

'Some said they think we're wasting money," he said.
"Others said they have been waiting for years to get a chance to vote against educational spending."

McKinnon said although it is an attractive idea to get an public about educational nding, he fears a referen-n would endanger the money only when it felt it

A referendum would give the people a chance to say something about spending on schools, but for it to fail would hurt the chances of a referendum on capital expenses — building new schools and maintaining exist schools and maintaining exist-ing ones — which could come up as early as next year, Mc-Kinnon said.

"It would be unfortunate to spend a lot of money on a ref-erendum which would proba-bly just confirm my opinion on its chances," he said.

The crews will block off a section of main sewer pipe before inserting a smoke homb. Smoke from the homb, colored green for easy detection, will then be fanned along the section, emerging wherever uncharted infiltration is taking place.

emerging wherever uncharted infiltration is taking place.

Steve Norman, assistant engineer for the Capital Regional District, said the smoke dissipates quickly once it reaches the surface and is harmless.

"It may look a little strange from time to time," he said. "But it is the quickest and the safest method known to ascertain the efficiency of the sanitary sewer system and to pin down for us just where inflow is taking place.

'We know fairly closely what the flow of sanitary sewage should be. And we know that any unusual overload must come from infiltration and inflow of storm water or other sources. It's just a matter now of pinpointing the major sources of inflow and taking corrective action," Horman said.

Most of the $22,000 cost of the survey will be paid by the federal government under the works incentive program.

Bread Buying Drop Seen When Times Are Good

TORONTO (CP) — When times are good, says Joan Fielden, bread sales drop. People substitute other, flashier foods for bread. They go on diets to lose weight and drop bread.

Mrs. Fielden says they shouldn't,

Mrs. Fielden is nutrition consultant for the Bakery Foods Foundation, the education arm of the Bakery Council of Canada. The 24-year-old council is a voluntary membership of bakers, organized-largely to be a voice for the industry.

Mrs. Fielden says she is aware of consumer concern and complaints about bread.

"I think people are confused about what's good and what isn't these days.

"Bread has all the things in it that are basic to good health, protein, calcium, fat, sodium, iron and so on. People think it has nothing but carbohydrate.

"Manufacturers do add vitamins to white bread. Fleur is made white because people don't, like yellow bread. The bleaching process destroys vitamins that are put back in.

"People say, but that's synthetic. Well, actually, it's made of animal stuff, and it-certainly is no more synthetic than the vitamins so many people take.

Mrs. Fielden says most breads now are about the same in nutritional value because most flours are enriched.

This is the ninth day of my Eight Week Beauty Improvement Plan and the last day I will be writing about it, except one day a week for the next six weeks. On those days I will bring you additional encouragement and help.

I know some of you have much more than 20 pounds to lose, but do not let that discourage you. The results from this course will be so inspiring that you will want to continue. The improvement a woman can make in her appearance in eight short weeks is astonishing.

The improvement a woman can make in her appearance in eight short weeks is astonishing.

Skin care is a vital part of your efforts in self-improvement. The exercise and the diet you are following will be reflected in your complexion. Increased circulation and more vegetables and fruits and fewer rich or greasy items will add to its heauty. But that is not enough if you really wish to look your prettiest at the end of HIP.

Perhaps you have given your skin only hit and miss care. If you have been careless in the past, treat it with regular attention for these eight weeks and watch it bloom. It will respond as enthusiastically as your figure. There are two occasions when special care is crucial. One is from middle-age on, particularly if your skin is dry or if you live in a dry climate. The other is when you are reducing. The epidermis must be kept pliable so that it can shrink to fit the new you!

Use softening body fotions generously and apply lubricating creams or oils on your face and neck regularly. Use a moisturizer under your makeup during the dây. Of course you know that cleanliness is essential. If you have heen going to bed with your makeup on, don't do it again.

If you have missed some of my Eight Week Beauty Improvement Plan, you can still begin and follow it. By BIP Kit gives you complete directions for weighing and measuring, dieting and exercise, two weeks' slimming menus, a calorie chart, a height and weight chart and a wall chart on which you can plot your progress. If you would like to lose from 15 to 20 pounds and become lovelier looking in the next eight weeks, send for my BIP Kit. Its warning against fresh and frozen spinach for babies under three months old was drawn up at a recent Bonn meeting of an FAO and World Health Organization commit-tee on special diets.

Runaway Youth Shock

WASHINGTON (WP) Among the more dramatic finds of the recent U.S. Senate hearings on runaway youth was the extreme youthfulness of some of the traveling kids.

In New York City, for example, 43 per cent of the runaways are between ages 11 and 14. Senator Birch Bayh, who organized the hearings, said that "this age group may become the single largest run-away age group." Already, 55 per cent of these girls running away to New York are be-tween 11 and 14.

By itself, the fact is startling. Eleven-year-olds on the tam from home? Thirty-years ago, an average 11-year-old would have trouble finding his or her way to the grocery store to get a quart of milk. But, taken with the rest of the changes in life in the last-few decades, the early age for running away is not so star-

Recite Alphabet

Yoday, many children-bare-ly three years old can recite the alphabet, count to 20 and name the days of the week, accomplishments once mas-tered only by six or seven-year-olds. It is now common for this latter group to know the differences in consumer products. Learning the suble-ties of the marketplace used to be something older generations achieved at age 14 or 15,

All of this may be for the

One undeniable fact emerges; although a child's mind and senses can be ac-tivated ahead of schedule, its deubtful that its emotions can. Emotions cannot tolerate short cuts, zoom lenses or other cram techniques. It is not that the emotions go slow, only that they go according to the schedule set in the human personality.

Query Raised

The runaway at 11 still has the natural emotional needs of the 11-year-old who stays at home close to the family, even though the runaway may be superior in worldly know how. The three-year-old spout-ing the alphabet may sound bright but it needs Mama and Papa as much as the kid just starting to talk.

As yet, there is little psychiatric literature on the way growing up is hurried up. "It growing up is nurried up. "It is something we're apt to talk about after dinner sitting around having drinks." said a Washington child psychiatrist. In his own practice, he has noted for some time that many of the disturbed children brought to him have not the something have being the brought to him have not the something him have being the brought to him have being the brought to him have not taken to take the something the the so dren brought to him have no "latency period."

Traditionally, he said, "this was the general period be-tween ages five and 12 when the personality was given a rest. Up to age five is a stormy period of life when a lot is happening both inside and outside the child. After period has been stolen from many children. They get no rest between five and twelve. The most obvious is the way parents let the kids be bombarded with stimulus from the television. They get hours of programs that can't help excite what should be laying still. There is also the sexual exposure. The print media is one source of this — in the nightclub ads, for example, where women are seen in ways traditionally reserved for adult eyes."

During the period of 5 to 12,

when the emotions should have been out to pasture feeding on quiet unstimulated growth, there was little or no emotional nutrition. The mind and senses were allowed to dominate. As a result, much of the behavior of many seen-agers appears to be a try at catching up for what was missed earlier.

WENDY DEY - EDITOR

for one period, now they may be glutted. The music so cherished by teenagers is an illustration. Not only are ils-teners bathed in intense, piercing sounds but they are also awash in intense, pierc-ing lights. There is little taste for subtle melodies or soft harmonies, two concepts that would seep, not flood, into the consciousness. Symbolically, the "sound and light show" engages two senses — hearing and seeing — simultaneously.

A second possible result of personality becomes excessively passive. With stimulus constantly coming in, what can go out? The Jesus Movement has an obvious appeal to the passive personality: just sit back and wait for Jesus, He's coming, He'il solve the world's problems, let's rap about Jesus.

about Jesus.
Senator Robert Dole, a Kansas Republican, recently spoke about passivity induced by television. "Most TV programs are 30 minutes or an hour long. They have one thing in common. At the be-ginning of the program, they build a problem. Maybe it's minor, but often it is the prob-lems of peace or war, famine or law and order. "But, regardless of its mag-nitude, 30 or 60 minutes later, that problem is solved.

Still Has Needs

"Is it possible - and I raise this as a question, not a con-clusion — that part of the unrest in this country, part of the dissatisfaction with gov-ernment and with our leaders is that, as far as our children are concerned, they do not solve problems fast enough?

"In real life, problems are solved and go away very slowly. Are our children hav-ing trouble separating the immediacy of television from the reality of life? . . . "

Like the psychiatrist, the senator had no answers, only a clear idea of the question. Both appear to have the right suspicion, however: something natural in human personality is being tampered with, that some-thing fragile is being roughmore than a machinery of cells, then there is no worry. But if he is something more and, unlike a machine, can control his responses, then it may be befter that the pace of growing up be slowed down. Cultures, regimes, governments, alliances all change, but the human personality stays constant. age 5, 11, 16 and on up.

Part of the appeal of batik is that anyone can easily do it, according to Malenka Hruby, who leaches night classes in batik and tie-dyeing at Camosun College. Her students, mostly young, include some males. Malenka gets the muslin ready for the first dye bath.

After being immersed for almost half an hour, it would be hung to dry. Wax would then be applied to the areas to ream in the color of the first bath. The cloth would be put in another color dye, and the process repeated. Dyeing begins with the lightest colors, progress

In Victoria there is little market for tatik, she said. Tweeds are preferred to bright, bold designs. "People are more self-effacing here," she commented.

Mrs. Hruby says that she is more interested in selling the craft rather than the product.

Some Simple Hints To Smooth Your Dyeing

Stick to unbleached cotton or muslin; it's cheapest and easiest.

Best dye for washing is fibre active or cold water dye. Since dye life is limited after dissolving in water, time the whole operation well.

Work out design in advance on paper or draw on fabric with wax crayon. Characteristic veiting on material can be controlled by careful bandling of material.

Materials needed are: par-atin or, beeswax, double-boiler, paint brushes, news-papers, rubber gloves, coarse galt, soda ash, dye and fabric. Test dye on sample cloth. Final color will be two shades ighter than original.

Fabric is lifted from bath, and hung to dry without squeezing or wringing. When thoroughly dry, more wax and other dyes can be applied.

Once batik is finished and dry, crumble wax by hand, Fabric is then immersed in a pot of boiling water to remove rest of wax and to fix colors.

Hang to dry again, then from between sheets of newspaper. Wax is brought to boiling point in a double-boiler. Apply by brush on the fabric in areas to remain white. Wax must penetrate fabric penetrate fabric.

If wax looks transparent on fabric, it's hot enough. If milky, reheat. Mistakes cannot be corrected, but drips and blobs can be incorporated and blobs can be incorporated in design.

For three yards of 36 inch wide cotton, add ¾ teaspoon of dye to enough water to cover fabric. Add 5½ tablespoons of coarse sait to water and dye, and immerse fabric for 10 minutes. Add 5½ to 7 teaspoons sode ash to solution; keep cloth soaking for another 15 minutes.

"The council had received a number of complaints in connection with the clearing operation including the specific allegation that the property was going to be cleared in such a way that a mess would be caused and the municipal-ity would thereby be forced to rezone the area.

"Due to the significant number of complaints and the apparent emergent circumstances the council felt that it had to act in the haste in which it did.

"Council of North Saanich at no time has asserted any and clearing operations with-in the municipality but only intended to act to protect its zoning bylaws and in order to abate what it thought was a nuisance pursuant to Section 873 of the Municipal Act." According to the release, Bains is prepared to discon-tinue Supreme Court proceedings and is prepared to clear the Lands End Road property in such a way as to not create a nuisance. ## Building Bylaw Faulty

A double mixup on an amendment to the Capital Regional District's building bylaw last year, which stipulated fees for various activities, was disclosed at Wednesday's board meeting.

As a result, a district spokesman said today, anyone who feels he was overcharged can appeal to the board for a refund.

The regional board gave all four readings to the amend-ment last summer before sending it to the municipal af-fairs department, where it sat until almost the end of De-

Deputy Municipal Affairs Minister J. D. Baird said in a letter that provincial approval is necessary after third read-ing and before final adoption by the regional board.

At its meeting Wednesday, the board rescinded final reading so the amendment could go back to the municipal affairs department. Baird indicated in his letter that approval will be given.

The amendment includes The amendment includes fees for various activities, including demolition and moving of houses, and increasing assessments for a sliding scale of fees. The original building bylaw, which contains the main fee schedule, was not affected.

Symptoms Caused by Teething

teething and fever or other general body disturbances in a baby.

Now, in a release from that fine organization, Hadassah, I read that at the Hadassah-Hebrew University Medical Centre in Jerusalem, a team of dentists has studfed this problem of whether there is an "statistically significant association" between The eruption of baby's teeth and the baby's running a fever without any sign of infection. The scientists studied babies between the ages of five and 23 months, examining the infants daily, with regard to such symptoms as temperature, vomiting, drooling and restlessness. The state of their teething was also

Any period of illness that the baby suffered was noted, and interestingly, the team of researchers found that the majority of teeth crupted during the periods of illness. The conclusion was that there is a positive correlation between tooth cruption and the occurrence of fever which has no apparent cause. When more than one tooth came out at the same time, the habies suffered from colds and indigestion as well. This will confirm what many a mother has long suspected.

DRUGS COMMONLY USED IN TREATING ARTHRITIS

form of the common joint disease.

The most common and familiar treatment that has been the mainstay of arthritics for years, is aspirin, and the closely related drug, sodium salicylate. Gold salts are sometimes used, but they can do the patient such harm that their use must be closely watched by an expert.

Cortisone and cortisone-like drugs can quickly give a patient great relief, but they cannot be counted on to cure, and they can have such distressing side effects that their use must be well watched, and perhaps occasionally interrupted. This is a danger with any very strong drug—that although it can sometimes work miracles, it can have adverse effects on the body, and must not be used over a long period of time without great caution.

Recently, Dr. G. J. Mouratoff, of Berkeley, Calif., wrote an article, summarizing the various drugs that are used in the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis, the vicious, severely crippling form of the common joint disease.

RADIATION TEST CONDEMNED

WASHINGTON (WP) - A faculty committee at the University of Cincinnati has condemned a Pentagon-spon-sored project to test the effects of radiation on humans and said the treatment hastened the deaths of some cancer patients used in the study.

tients used in the study.

In a detailed analysis of the Cincinnati medical school project, the university's junior faculty association found that 21 out of 87 patients who received total body radiation — 24 per cent — died within 38 days of the treatment. No doctors were members of the faculty study committee.

Although these patients were suffering from terminal cases of cancer, the committee said "they were not in the final stages of disease or close to death." They were described in reports by the project team as being "in relatively good health" when the radiation treatments began.

"Many died of radiation injury rather than simply from their disease," the committee concluded.

their disease," the committee concluded. "Many patients in this project paid severely for their par-ation . . , often without even knowing they were part of an experiment," said the special study committee,

The report said the committee received "extensive help from members of the medical community." In compiling the seven-page, single-spaced report, the committee said it studied all the documents submitted to the Pentagon's defence nuclear agency by project director Dr.

Eugene Saenger during the past 11 years, as well as other reports by the project team.

The faculty committee concluded that the cancer patients were given doses of whole body radiation designed primarily to benefit the Pentagon-sponsored study, not to treat their

Empress Suffers From Air Strike

The city's largest hotel — the Empress — is in a 20 per cent bookings slump and has lost two small conventions because of the air travel tieup.

Of the major hotels and motels in the capital region, the Empress appears to be suffering the most in a week of stormy weather, railway slides and a strike of air traffic controllers that has idled Canada's major airlines. Half the hostelries checked said their business was normal

The Empress lost conventions that would have placed a total 310 persons in the hotel, or in other hotels, for three to four nights. Delegates would have come from across Canada There also had been a loss of business last week through fewer persons coming from out of the city to attend the opening of the legislature.

The Dominion Hotel, also slack, attributed its decline direcity to the weather as it normally gets little air traffic.

Hotel Douglas, which felt the pinch last week, had been picking up slowly since and by Wednesday afternoon was able to report a normal booking of winter guests.

One place ran counter to both season and conditions. Executive House said its bookings were up from this time last year.

Long, Hot Summer Needed for Peanuts

Can I grow peanuts in the garden? A good question last week from an aspiring young gardener.

The answer is yes; though it is easier to grow the plant than to be sure of having peanuts at the end of the season, for peanuts need a long, warm growing season not normally a feature of our coastal summers.

We can get round this situation by starting the plants in-doors for transplanting to the garden when warm weather comes in either May or June.

comes in either May or June.

This procedure is the same as is used for tomatoes, sweet peppers, egoplants, melons and similar semi-tropical food-plants requiring long, warm summers.

The peanut plant is worth growing for its general interest. It belongs in the legume family with the peas, vetch and sweet peas, but the seed pods containing the peanuts are found buried in the top few inches of soil.

The peanut plant bears two kinds of flowers; the showy vellow ones are pollen bearers or staminate, the tiny incon-

Deviously a heavy clay soil could never be utilized by this plant. If it is sandy and light, yet fertile, the soil will be readily penetrated by the stems and it will be warm enough to promote growth and ripening of the seedpods.

At least one Canadian vegetable seed catalogue lists peanut "seeds". Early Spanish is recommended for Canada as being the earliest maturing. Sow indoors about April F for our

When germination is complete, remove the weaker of the two seadings leaving one to a pot.

Grow them indoors at a temperature about 60 degrees F. with ample light and only just sufficient water to keep the

As weather gets warmer in May, put the whole flat of pots outdoors by day, taking in at night until nights are no honger chilly. About early June, set the young peanut plants 10 inches apart to allow space for developing good children.

After the pods begin to form in the ground, it is recommended that a two-inch covering of sandy loam is spread over the root area, that is, the centre of the plant. Once this is-done, the peanut plants should depend on moisture in the humusy soil for further growth, and not on hose sprinking for this cools the soil each day and thus retards growth.

Before frost, lift the entire plants to be hung in a dry airy place to complete ripening the pods.

After West had opened a low heart and the dummy came into view, South quickly perceived that the four-spade contract was a virtually guaranteed one. He had no losers in either hearts or diamonds, and just one loser in Viewing the situation pessimistically, the only thing that could hurt him would be if one of the defenders made three trump tricks. If the four outstanding trumps were di-yided either 2-2 or 3-1, then no matter how South played the trump suit, he wouldn't lose more than two tricks in it. But if one of the opponents held all four trumps a most unlikely possibility then precautionary measures were essential. And so South played the hand on the assumption that one of the opponents held the After capturing the opening lead with his king of hearts, he led the deuce of trumps to-

emperatures Rise to 20 Below EATON'S Warehouse Store

By The Canadian Press The baimy weather is re-turning across the Prairies— it was only 20 to 40 below

This was an improvement in many areas on record temperatures during the last two days and the prospects were for the temperature to climb to 10 below today in some

Nevertheless, no full-scale relief from the sub-zero tem-peratures that have plagued the Prairies for more than two weeks was expected until the weekend.

Winds were expected to con-tinue to be calm in most of southern and central Alberta but the Peace River country of northwestern Alberta and much of Saskatchewan were not due to be so lucky.

Gusty winds in the Peace region and brisk southwest-erlies in Saskatchewan were expected to drop the relative emperature called the wind-chill factor back into the 'unbearable' category.

Skies were expected to be clear over almost all of the Prairies.

Staff to be Cut CALGARY (CP) — Budget outs at the University of Cal-gary will likely result in the dismissal of 100 to 150 non-academic staff at the start of the next financial year, says the chairman of the campus branch of the Civil Service

Ted Rhodes said there has not been a specific number of dismissals mentioned but a 10-per cent cut, in the budget should mean a corresponding reduction in staff. "It's some-thing that is inevitable. If they're going to cut, we can't possibly have the same number of people working."

WHY AM I RUNNING FOR ALDERMAN?

Because our Queen's Buckingham Palace can probably be purchased for less than the $24.00 per sq. ft. our city council and Mayor are actually paying the Ocean Cement people (with our money) for LESS than ONE ACRE OF LAND. Because the city police force is terribly overpopulated with uniformed men, (one of the City's greatest expenditures) Police riding around in the daytime two men to a car, completely unnecessary. The force should be cut by at least 20 men, immediately. Because the taxpayer should be allowed to all council meetings, and treated with proper respect while there. Because with 19 parks in the city, 13.11 acres of additional playgrounds, 15 additional play lots, in excess of 1,673 acres of greens and squares, an additional 1,725 acres of park as (Mt. Douglas Park,) not including approximately 3 miles of most beautiful waterfront; I suggest that on a per capita basis we, in the City of Victoria, have more parkland than any other city on the North American continent. We need no other parkiand. People's taxes must be reduced instead. Because with the peace and quiet enjoyment of living in Victoria, the Aircraft now allowed to operate in the Inner Harbour must not be allowed to operate any longer. This terrible means of noise pollution, (allowed and licensed by-a City Council!) must be stopped immediately. Because the lossesting upon the polyment of past councils must not be allowed to incurred by bad management of past councils must not be allowed to happen again. The City has lost (our Money) hundreds of thousands of Dollars by foolish expenditures, and bumbling management. Because some councillor should take special note that NO trees shall be destroyed or mutilated, as has been allowed to be done on Cook St. between Fort and Dallas Rd. Some of the most beautiful Chestnut Trees, and one of the nicest streets in all of Canada, ruined forever. Because people should not be penalized, for beautifying their property, instead I would recommend a tax percentage reduction, depending on the amount of alterations or beautification done to their property. This would help increase the beauty of our City, instead of the reverse.

Because if I am elected, I will be available by phone 24 hrs. a day on answering council, and my office shall always be open to all of you people of Victoria to discuss your problems and matters pertaining to the City. Those are but some of the reasons I ask you to let me represent you on council, I promise to fight for your cause

TH YEAR No. 193

By PETER MCNELLY Times Staff

British Columbia's coastal forests are running out of prime timber, forcing a "re-voluntary" change in sawnin operations, Resources Min-ister Ray Williston told the legislature Wednesday.

Taking his turn in the Taking his turn in the throne speech debate, Williston indicated a new type of saw mill operation has emerged in B.C. to process timer bypassed by older companies such as MacMillan-Bloedel and B.C. Forest Products.

These are typified by relatively recent operations such as the Pacific Logging-Doman mill in Ladysmith and Northwood operation in Prince George, he said in an inter-view outside the house.

SHAPE FUTURE

The government's policy of close utilization of forests helped bring about these changes during the last decade, said the minister, and will continue to shape the future of forestry corrections in ture of forestry operations in the best timber.

"Over the years this has worked well, but the stands of readily accessible, high grade timber are gradually declining and as we move northward and higher up the slopes of the mountains, new types of timber stands have to be out. Such require a new type of plant for processing and new ways of handling and sorting the logs."

MANDATORY

Close utilization policies, said Williston in an interview tater, will come to Vancouver Island and the mainland

"We're making them man-datory in (public sustained yield) units in the interior and yield) units in the interior and the same procedure will be followed on the coast. And that will be telescoped considerably by the fact that I spoke this afternoon. That was the intent of my speech."

But he refused to-say that the government would force adoption of a close utilization policy on the coast.

policy on the coast.

Close utilization is a policy which requires both manage-ment and labor to care for the future of their jobs and rights to work Crown forest lands, he said.

This is because both parties know they have a stake in stable production levels.

"Up until the present time
the introduction of the C.U.
program on the coast has suffered from the 'chicken and the egg' problem. No one was willing to harvest the wood unless it could be sold to cover costs plus a fair profit."

Tax Relief Plea Sounded Again

(North Vancouver-Seymour) Wednesday renewed his annual plea for property tax relief for the elderly.

In his reply to the throne speech, Clark told the legislature the provincial govern-ment should create a fund allowing elderly homeowners to charge their property taxes against it.

This would not require much money, said Clark, and the fund would continually be replenished by money coming in from deferred taxes realized on the sale of these homes after the owner died.

'It's cheaper than building age homes; would enable the elderly to stay where they are and would stop old age ghet(os," he said.

The Liberal member noted this is the sixth year he has advocated this scheme and now it is backed by the Union of B.C. Municipalities.

On other subjects, Clark suggested B.C. consider legis-lation similar to that in Great Britain which forbids advertising companies to accept government business if they also take political advertising.

BUDGETS TIGHT

Clark noted the provincial government paid $774,000 to James Lovick Ltd. advertis-ing during the I970-71 fiscal*

He said, the government should provide free drugs to the elderly and give them free bus passes. Also needed are more elderly residential homes and government payments for artificial limbs.

Clark also said if the government was sincerely worri ed about oil pollution dangers from tanker shipments down our coast from Alaska, the throne speech would have expressed concern.

Green Smoke Signals Survey

Puffs of green smoke will emanate from sewers and drains in Victoria West and Esquimalt next week.

The smoke is harmless, and part of a survey to pinpoint major sources of storm water infiltration into sewers.

Starting Monday, two four-man work crews will test equipment for a four-month survey of sewers in Esquimalt, Sanich and Victoria with Vic West and Esquimalt the first targets.

The crews will block off a section of main sewer pipe before inserting a smoke bomb. Smoke from the bomb, colored green for easy detection, will then be fanned along the section; emerging wherever uncharted infiltration is taking place.

Steve Norman, assistant engineer for the Capital Regional District, said the smoke dissipates quickly once it reaches the surface and is harmless.

"It may look a little strange from time to time," he-said. "But it is the quickest and the safest, method known to ascertain the efficiency of the sanitary sewer system and to pin down for us just where inflow is taking place.

"We know fairly closely what the flow of sanitary sewage should be. And we know that any unusual overload must come from infiltration and inflow of sform water or other sources. British Columbia's coastal forests are running out of prime timber, forcing a "re-voluntary" change in sawmill operations, Resources Min-ister Ray Williston told the legislature Wednesdays

Gunshot Wrecks Bomb

molished by police shotgun scraper Wednesday and didn't

The two bottom floors of the 43-storey building of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce were evacuated after the bomb, fitted with two mousetraps wired to detonators, was found shortly before 3 p.m. EST.

But thousands of the building occupants stayed on the upper floors while police shot at the dangerous device.
Police bomb disposal officers feared the bomb might go off if it was moved.

Police said that if they had cut any of the wires in either of the two independent circuits in the device, or jarred either mousetrap loose by attempting to move it, it might
